Interest and Enthusiasm in This Unusual Baby Contest

Large Number of Charming Babies Contesting — Is Your Baby One? — If Not Why? — Save Baby Coupons—Start Today—First Count May 15—Ask Your Merchant for Coupons.

Notice to Parents

We wish to add to the list of stores giving Baby Coupons, and in order to do this the Baby Derby Editor will give $5 to any parent who secures an additional store. There is no limit to this offer. If you induce several merchants to join in the Baby Derby we will gladly pay $5 each.

It costs the merchant $10 to take part. For this he secures his advertising in the paper, and one roll of coupons handling $500 in sales. If he needs a second roll the cost is the same, but on all additional rolls the cost is but $5. After the first roll, a rebate will be given the merchant on any unused coupons.

Why not call on a few merchants and earn a few of these $5 bills? Report to the Baby Derby Editor when you have secured a new store.

If you have a child under five years old, why not enter it in the Baby Derby? Surely, you can lose nothing, and with a little activity you will be able to see your baby's picture published in the Advertiser and Sentinel. Remember, babies are babies just a short time, so while the opportunity is presented for you to have your baby's picture published, be sure to take advantage of it. We feel certain that you will guard and cherish for years to come the copy of the Advertiser and Sentinal carrying your baby's picture.

The Baby Derby has taken the public's fancy in a manner far exceeding any other competition ever known. For the first time the people of Addison and Woodhull and surrounding trading territory will be able to see in the Advertiser and Sentinel all the beauty and charm embodied in the loveiy tots entered in the race.

Maytime Dance For Welles Hose Friday Night

Welles Hose committeemen are hoping the present spell of good weather will remain for their Maytime dance to be held Friday night in the village hall. Hal Ritter and his Red and Black Pennsylvanians has been engaged for this dance. Members of the committee arranging the affair are attempting to secure the best in music for these dances which they are running under the auspices of the Hose company to raise funds.

Decorations in the hall are being changed to conform with the Maytime atmosphere which the committeemen are trying to create. The affair will be a semi-formal affair. There will be dancing from 10 to 2.

Large delegations of dancers are expected from Corning, Painted Post, Westfield, Elkland and other places. There is a close relationship between the firemen of the communities owing to the New York-Penn. Association. All cooperate in social as well as professional activities.

The support of the people of Addison and vicinity is sought for this affair, as it is only through these parties that the firemen are enabled to purchase additional equipment for fighting fires. Owing to the volunteer nature of the department villagers and vicinity people should support these activities.

Spectators are invited to attend the affair. The balcony will be reserved for them and seats on the ground floor also.

Dykins Wins Awards At Photographer's Meet

Ralph B. Dykins, local photographer, was awarded three merit awards at the state convention of the New York State Photographers held recently in Binghamton. He presented three photo portraits, of which one was Mrs. "Grandma" Bates, 101 years old, of South Addison. The largest number of photographers in the history of the organization were entered in the pictures contest.

Surprise Party Given For Mrs. George Moore

Mrs. George Moore was pleasantly surprised at her some Sunday in honor of her birthday anniversary. Gifts were presented Mrs. Moore. A picnic dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. George Case of Greenwood; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Russell and children Betty, James and Theodore of Hornell; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Moore, son Warren, George Moore and complimented guest, Mrs. Moore.

Voters Appropriate $500 To Dredge Creek

At the recent village election it was voted to appropriate $500 for the purpose of dredging the creeks of the village. The vote was carried by an overwhelming majority as only two voters cast a ballot against the appropriation.

During the spring rains the high water does considerable damage to property along the creeks because of their shallowness. Work is expected to begin in a short time.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Charles Colegrove returned home Sunday from a hospital in Hornell where she was treated for a ruptured blood vessel in the head. She is still in a weakened condition and has suffered a slight hemorrhage since returning home.

A SON

Announcement has been received of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Van Schaick in Elkland. Mrs. Van Schaick will be remembered as Miss Amy McCaslin, a former resident of this place.

A SON

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bly of Penn Yan, Saturday, April 24. The infant has been named James Duane. Mrs. Bly was formerly Miss Alice Higley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Higley of this place.

Louise Phillips Has Narrow Auto Escape

Miss Louise Phillips, Goodhue Hill, narrowly escaped death Tuesday afternoon when a motor car she was driving got beyond her control. The mechanism of the car went out of order, according to Miss Phillips, and she was unable to stop the car in its wild dash down Goodhue Hill. The light car crossed Front street without striking a motor car, careened across the Erie tracks and after striking the car of Llewellyn Towner, was stopped by a large barrel of baknig compound which was broken open by the impact. Miss Phillips was fortunate in that no trains were at the crossing.

She sustained minor cuts about the face and body and shock. The car was badly damaged in that the gears were stripped, brakes became inoperative and the under side of the car was damaged. Part of the Pep-O Bakery wall was torn out by the car pushing barrels through the building.

VILLAGE TAX RATE IS $13.37

Taxpayers in the village of Addison will be pleased to know that their tax rate for the coming year will be less than last year. The sum paid for village purposes only last year was $15.37, per $1.000 of taxable property.

The budget for this year has been prepared and is $13.37 or exactly $2.00 less per $1,000 than the previous year.

Harry Mullen Is Scout Speaker in Jasper

Boy Scouts of troop 46 sponsored a pan cake supper in the high school Friday night to which parents and friends were invited. The supper was followed by a speaking program held in the auditorium.

The members of the troop committee assisted the Scouts in preparing and serving the supper. J. H. France was in charge of the meeting for the troop committee. This meeting also marked the introduction of the finance drive in Jasper and vicinity for the funds to carry on the local troop and council activities.

The troop netted $14 from the supper. Walter Willover, principal of the school, supervised work in the kitchen.

The Rev. A. S. Taylor, of the Presbyterian Church was master-of-ceremonies at the speaking program. Harry Mullen, executive board member of General Herkimer Council, was the speaker. He spoke in part":

"Scout leadership [illegible]ning is needed in this chaotic world today. Homes are failing owing to broken or unstable family conditions, fathers lose interest in boys as chums, movies and magazines provide stimulus for activities. Religious leaders point to 58 million Protestants not going to church and only one in three boys attend Sunday school. A survey showed boys objected to Sunday school owing to teachers being women and therefore not the manly discipline, women too old or too young teaching active boys and average teacher unlearned in boy work.

"Schools are failing to aid the boy in many cases because he has unsympathetic sarcasm of a woman teacher when he needs man's guidance and firm hand. The Boy Scout program supplements the church, the home and the school, but does not take the place of any one of them. And character-building and citizenship are the underlying objectives in Scouting despite spectacular showings of uniforms, troop meetings, rallies and the hike.

"Five fundamentals in Scouting are: physical fitness, the [illegible] athletic [illegible] education, vocational guidance with emphasis on the [illegible] in merit badge work, character-building thru motto, law and oath. The last three form the code of ethics for Scouts. And the fifth point in the program is the proper development of attitudes towards life and citizenship".

The speaker gave a history of the movement for the parents and friends present and the work required of the various classes in scouting. He told why boys and adults like the program and gave advice to the Scouts relative to advancement.

Stuart Votes For Rogers-Allen Milk Bill

(Special Wire to The Sentinel)

Albany, May 4, 1937—Assemblyman William M. Stuart, Second Steuben, Monday night voted for the Rogers-Allen Milk Bill, which passed the assembly 80 to 62 and voted against the McElroy-Young bill which the assembly defeated 88 to 52. The Rogers-Allen Bill authorized producers and dealers to organize in the various areas in the state for the purpose of regulating prices. The McElroy-Young Bill would give price-fixing power to producers alone. In casting his vote Assemblyman Stuart said, "I have received hundreds and hundreds of letters and telegrams from [illegible] for the Rogers-Allen bill." Since it appears that that is the milk bill the majority wants, that is the bill I want them to have. The Rogers-Allen Bill is not a solution to the problems. It is, however, a step in the right direction towards a solution of the complex milk problem. Something had to be done to avert a crisis. I believe the Rogers-Allen Bill will keep a bad condition from getting worse, while we legislators, in cooperation with the interested parties, continue probing for the answer. Assemblyman Stuart explained that he voted against the McElroy-Young bill because he did'nt believe one could vote for both bills and be consistent. Many assemblymen voted for both measures on the theory that the government be permitted to select a better bill.

MRS. O'GRADY'S PIGS

Since the matter of keeping the Addison business section cleaned up, was mentioned in these columns about three weeks ago the village fathers have been doing a good job of removing the accumulations of debris. The street has been swept several times and once the pavement was flushed off with the fire hose. Altogether we have had reason to be proud of the appearance of the street most of the time since.

We repeat, "most of the time". And by that we mean that as far as natural causes and accumulations of dirt are concerned, we can be proud of the condition of the street. But that does not take care of the frailty of the human mind, nor does it allow for the carelessness of people who in other respects seem to look and act like ordinary individuals. Specifically, we refer to the people who will drive up in their cars, park along the curb and start partaking of a lunch. These strange individuals may purchase one or two oranges, or a bunch of bananas, remove the skins and throw the latter broadcast over the clean pavement. When they leave, a portion of the street which was immaculately clean when they arrived, looks as if it had been rooted over by Mrs. O'Grady's pigs.

It is one thing for the corporation to clean up our village streets. But after that is done, it is up to the citizens of the village to see that they are KEPT CLEAN. Perhaps you and I are not just the ones who would throw orange peelings broadcast over a clean pavement. But we may see someone else who just hasn't noticed the street was recently cleaned up. And if we point out the fact to them, and ask their co-operation, it is likely, if they are decent folk, they will not repeat the offense. If they do persist in scattering debris around after someone has asked them not to, in a nice way, then we will just have to believe they are not human beings after all.

For it is certain one could speak to Mrs. O'Grady's pigs every morning, and every evening just as long as they lived, and yet all the speaking you could do would not get Mrs. O'Grady's pigs to ever become neat.

WHO SAID ECONOMY?

Democratic campaigners last fall admitted that the national debt would hit an all time high of 35 billion dollars this July 1st, but they maintained that thereafter the budget would be in balance and from July, 1937 onward there would be a gradual decrease in the debt. The debt will be some 26 million over the 35 billion July 1st, but according to the President's own words, that is not the end. Estimates now point to a debt of some 35,750,000,000 by the first of July, 1938, and the Administration is again predicting a balanced budget after that time.

It is nothing new for the Administration to predict balancing the national budget at some future date. That prediction we have listened to time and again, and nothing ever comes of it. Nor was the President's declaration for economy the other day, the first time he has uttered brave words along that line. Yet the economy was not forthcoming. Now Congress has taken up the subject of economy and there is talk among the legislators of making a slash of ten per cent in all government departments, except in that of debt retirement, or rather interest payment to be more exact.

Representative Taber, our good neighbor up at Geneva, N. Y., evidently thought he would test out some of his colleagues to see of their economy words were mere "talking through their hats". Congressman Taber moved to have the House Department of Agriculture appropriation bill of $925,000,000 sent back to the committee to have ten per cent lopped off of it. But Congress apparently is not in favor of economy if it affects as many votes as are mustered by the farmers, so the Taber motion was voted down by an overwhelming majority.

We have little doubt that the whole economy program as talked by both Congress and the President will eventually turn out just as did this motion of Congressman Taber. When an individual becomes spending "drunk" they usually keep right on throwing out money just as long as they can get their hands on it. Legislators seem to be made the same way. We have had a "spending" President and a "spending" Congress with us for more than four years and we might as well make up our minds they will keep on spending as long as they remain in office and are able to borrow money.

SMALL MERCHANTS INCREASE BUSINESS

Are chain stores driving independent stores out of business? Is the percentage of all retail trade done by chains increasing, and that done by independents decreasing? Is monopoly being attained in the merchandising field?

You've probably heard various answers to these questions—answers which are more often based on misinformation and prejudice than not. Now it is possible to get the real answer, from an official statistical source.

According to the magazine, Tide, "The Commerce Department's Census Bureau published what many consider the most vital part of the 1935 survey of retail business—the low-down on chain and independent retail operation.

"Little merchants and their leaders, hunting for information to prove that the chains were crowding the little fellow off the retail map, found they were on the wrong trail before they'd thumbed half through the introduction. The ratio of chain store sales to the total, they learned, had dropped since the 1933 census".

The latest complete figures show that the independents are doing 72.8 per cent of retail business—and that they have increased their volume of business since 1933 almost twice as much as chains. The independents, far from giving up the ghost, are not only holding their own, but are making inroads into their chain competitors. This speaks volumes for the aggressiveness and standards of service offered by independents—and it also shows the soundness and fairness of our American system of free competition in the merchandising field, with resulting benefits to consumers in lower prices and better services.

GUESS AND JUMP

The Roosevelt estimate of funds needed for relief of the unemployed is just one more case of guess and jump. As the cartoon on this page suggests, the President had one of his secretaries run a lot of question marks over the keyboard of an adding machine, pulled the addition lever and set down the amount of $1,500,000,000, as the sum needed to supply the relief roll for the coming year. Of course it is not so very scientific, but what do scientific answers mean to an Administration which has absolutely refused for the past four years to make any move to discover how many unemployed actually are in the country?

Year after year there have been different estimates of the number of people out of jobs, and year after year those estimates have been taken as the guide for appropriating huge sums of money for the year. And year after year the Administration has turned a deaf ear to the proposal for getting an actual accurate check-up on the number of employed and the number of unemployed.

That could be accomplished by taking a census of the entire nation. A list of our citizens, where they live and where they work, or the length of their employment would quickly tell the tale of how many are actually out of work. It could be accomplished by the expenditure of a few millions at most, and this Administration has been throwing millions around as if they used Chinese brass money with holes punched through it. It would also furnish us with invaluable information regarding the number of foreigners within our boundaries who have been living off our relief funds.

For some strange reason the Administration has not wanted to have definite information on the number of unemployed. It is easy to see why the matter might have been soft-pedaled until after the national election, but since election is over the politicians need not hide the number or be fearful of losing votes for awhile, and the truth would do a lot of good.

Yet instead of getting the information in the most accurate manner the Administration deftly side-step the question of a census. It is so much more satisfactory when handing out huge sums of money to the politicians not to KNOW exactly how much really is needed. So the President has once more made his estimate for relief expenditures on the plan of guess and jump.

THE CAPITAL GAINS TAX

Morris S. Tremaine, New York Comptroller, made the statement the other day that large scale unemployment is likely to continue and enterprise in the building trades, real estate operations and home building cannot gather headway until the capital gains section of the federal income tax law is repealed or drastically modified.

Since making the above statement Mr. Tremaine has received a flood of letters and telegrams favoring his recommendation.

"The blighting effect of this tax for years has permeated the whole business fabric of this country", Mr. Tremaine says, "and the sooner the government gets rid of it—and for its own immediate benefit—the sooner we can open the floodgates of pent-up capital now taking refuge in tax-exempt bonds or taking advantage of unhampered trading opportunities outside the United States".

Among those who reacted to Comptroller Tremaine's interview, he said, was an economist who said that "to consider capital gain as income is to confuse the tree with the fruit. The tree represents capital, its growth represents capital gain and the fruit represents its only true income."

Another thing this capital gains tax might be likened is to killing the goose which laid the golden egg. Unless business has an opportunity for growth and accumulating capital, business cannot furnish employment or survive depressions.

A Line of Policy?

By WALTER LIPPMANN

MR. CUMMINGS'S letter, dated last Monday, shows that the Department of Justice has been giving some serious attention to the [illegible] laws, and not the suit against Mr. Mellon's Aluminum Company [illegible] not, as at first it appeared, mere partisan sniping. The letter shows that the department has been investigating carefully identical bids and other symptoms of monopolistic control in the steel industry, and has found the anti-trust laws inadequate and the enforcement machinery too weak to deal with the problem. There is every reason for thinking that Mr. Cummings is quite right, and that thorough revision of the laws is called for.

But Mr. Cummngs might well have added that the anti-trust laws will not be strengthened or respected or enforced until there is an administration which convinces the country that it really believes in the policy of those laws.

Not for twenty years, not since the first term of Woodrow Wilson, has there been an administration in Washington which genuinely desired to maintain and restore competition in American industry. President Wilson made a brave start, but the war forced him to turn to other things, and war conditions always and everywhere breed monopoly. In the twelve Republican years after the war the anti-trust laws were for all practical purposes disregarded; in fact, the Republican administrations tolerated and even encouraged the development of mergers and combinations on a stupendous scale. A study made for a committee sponsored by President Hoover shows that from 1919 to 1928, in manufacturing and mining, there were 1,268 combinations which involved the union of 4,135 separate concerns and the disappearance of 5,991. In 1929 another 1,245 independent manufacturing and mining enterprises disappeared.

What the Republicans had connived at, the New Dealers in the N. R. A. openly sanctioned, imagining that the legalized monopolies were the beginnings of a planned economy. The unusual severity of the depression was in some considerable measure due to the fact that these gigantic combinations, with their rigid capital structures and their bureaucratic mentality, could not and would not readjust industrial prices to the lower level of agricultural and raw material prices. The exchange of goods was stopped, and it was restored only by artificial inflationary measures to bring farm prices into line with the monopolistic prices.

The most reactionary and dangerous tendency of the New Deal has been that instead of breaking up private monopoly, it accepted private monopoly and then sought to counteract the evils by paying out subsidies, multiplying government agencies and by organizing more monopolies. When the New Dealers ran afoul of the Supreme Court they were headed for a system in which every producer would have been a member of a compulsory monopoly with the government trying to regulate and direct and co-ordinate the monopolies.

It takes more than one swallow to make a summer, and considering the aptitude of the Administration for going in two opposite directions at the same time, it is too early to say that the Aluminum suit and Mr. Cummings's letter really signify the return of the New Deal to the historic principles of American progressivism. But I should like to believe that they do signify that. For on the road now indicated, it would be possible to reform the abuses of capitalism without setting up an intolerably powerful and irresponsible form of personal government. But on the road the country traveled for the twelve Republican years and then for the four years of the New Deal, there is no end except an oppressive and inefficient collectivism.

Among the leaders of big business the time may be at hand when they must make the same kind of decisive change of policy which they have recently made in regard to the recognition of the unions. The far-sighted among them must know that private monopoly is in the long run as impossible a policy as the refusal to bargain with the freely chosen representatives of their employees. The kind of "freedom" they had in the post-war era, the freedom to practice monopoly behind exclusive tariff walls and to deal autocratically with labor, they are not likely to see again.

Nor ought they wish to see it again. For that kind of thing, if persistently pursued, destroys the moral foundations of private enterprise and of private property. If big business men try to practice a private socialism, inevitably they will push the country into some form of public socialism. The real propagandists of collectivism in America are not the Marxian orators but the promoters of private monopoly.

So if they are wise, and if they are loyal to the pledges made by the Republican party in the recent campaign, the enlightened leaders of big business, the industrialists of the calibre of Mr. Myron Taylor, will take seriously this movement to end monopoly and restore competition. It may disturb many arrangements which seem to be working satisfactorily. Nevertheless, they will serve the country better, and their own interests as well, if they start to revise their own policies and come forward ready to co-operate with Congress in strengthening the laws against monopoly and combinations in restraint of trade. They can really take no other course. For the practice of private monopoly in the vital industries cannot be defended, and in the end the people will not tolerate it.

"In the proposal to make our government one of men rather than of law, millions of Americans will see the possibilities of dictatorship"

—Carbondale (Pa.) Leader

Economy Drive Lacks Zeal of Court Fight

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the argument of the President and Congress about reducing government expenditures, the core is a figure in the most recent report of W.P.A. The figure is 2,114,790—for convenience call it 2,000,000. That is the number of persons who were on W. P. A. relief rolls on March 27, the date of the latest report.

It is necessary to know just what category of persons those 2,000,000 are. To know that it is necessary to understand the distinction between two classes of persons, described in two phrases that came in with the New Deal. The two phrases are "the unemployables" and "the unemployed employables."

The "unemployables" are those who can't work, the old, the crippled, the physically or mentally defective, all the completely and permanently unable to work. These we can dismiss from the present exposition. These are supported wholly by states and other local units of government. These are not the Federal government's burden; they do not figure in Mr. Roosevelt's problem of balancing the budget.

The class that the Federal government takes care of, and that creates the Administration's fiscal problem, are the "unemployed employables." These are, or are supposed to be, persons able to work but not able to find jobs in private industry. These are employed on W. P. A. relief projects. These projects are paid for by the Federal government, with a comparatively small qualification. The Federal government requires the state or city or other local community to make some contribution. Just how much is decided by W. P. A. It depends on the state's or city's ability to contribute. The average contribution is 13 per cent. The rest, 87 per cent, almost the whole, is paid for by the Federal government. With this relatively immaterial qualification, the Federal government, by means of "made" projects, supports the "unemployed employables." Mr. Roosevelt asks for $1,500,000,000 to go on supporting them during the next fiscal year. W. P. A. says, with a manner of complaint, that $1,500,000,000 will support only 1,786,000 persons. That is some 400,000 less than the number now supported.

The question is, will there be in the United States, throughout next year, 1,786,000 persons who are able and willing to work but can't find private jobs? The more direct and present question is, are there in the United States today, 2,114,790 persons who are ablebodied and willing to work but are unable to find private jobs?

Some persons say there are more. The persons who say there are more include some W. P. A. officials and some members of Congress, most of them of radical bent. These persons say the number of "unemployed employables" is much greater than the 2,000,000 that W. P. A. now cares for. These persons think that Mr. Roosevelt's requested $1,500,000,000 for relief ought to be increased. The "workers' alliance," a kind of queer labor union and political pressure organization of W. P. A. employees, says the amount ought to be $3,000,000,000. They want more persons on W. P. A. jobs, and want higher wage rates for them.

What is the true number of "unemployed employables"? The answer is wholly a matter of judgment, the kind of judgment that is really a guess. There are no official figures. There has never been a census of the unemployed. Whether there ought to be a census and how it ought to be taken, is a matter about which dispute exists.

In the lack of exact figures, the number of "unemployed employables" is a matter of estimate, by persons in a position to observe. In large cities, they probably exist in considerable numbers. In rural districts and other small communities, where observation is easiest, observers say the number on relief projects is greater than it ought to be. They say there are persons on relief jobs who could readily find private jobs—if they really wanted private jobs.

In some rural communities, W. P. A. provides much of the material for current jests. They say that if there were no W. P. A. there wouldn't be any "unemployed employables." If W. P. A. were administered and paid for by local communities, W. P. A. would cease to exist. In local communities, neighbors know who is able to work, who could get a private job if he really wanted one, and one prefers a W. P. A. job because the work is easier.

Yet, just because W. P. A. is administered from Washington and paid for from Washington, the almost universal tendency is to encourage it. Local communities hoot in private, but in public quietly approve. They laugh about W. P. A.—but they like to see the money come in from Washington to the tills of local merchants. They like to see the 8,300 local school buildings that W. P. A. has built, and the 3,000 local athletic fields, and the 5,000 recreation buildings and town halls, and the 21,000 bridges.

What is true of local communities is true of states. Governors of most states feel there really are some "unemployed employables," even if not so many as W. P. A. finds work for. Or Governors feel that some time, in some future depression, there will be "employed employables." They feel that if the Federal government did not support them, the states might have to. The states are eager to uphold the principle, originated by Mr. Roosevelt, of Federal responsibility. Also the states, like the local communities, enjoy seeing the money coming from Washington into the state. The Associated Press recently queried all forty-eight Governors about relief and whether it should be reduced. Only two Governors, Republican Aiken of Vermont, and Democratic McMullen of Delaware, favored reduction.

This brings us back to Congress and President Roosevelt and the national problem. Individual Congressmen are called on to choose between what the Federal interest calls for, namely, reducing relief expenditures, and, on the other hand, what the states like, namely, keeping relief expenditures up.

Which side will the Congressman favor? Constitutionally, he is a Federal official, and therefore ought to do what the Federal interest calls for. But politically a Congressman comes from a state or a district within a state. Politically his kinship is with the state. The state is where he comes up for re-election. The pressure of the state on him in most cases would be to keep relief expenditures up. Many Congressmen, a number remarkably large in the circumstances, are resisting this pressure.

As for President Roosevelt, he presses Congress to reduce expenditures. But the President's pressure is not very strenuous. He does not press for reduced expenditures as hard as he presses for his proposal to change the Supreme Court.

Watches Once Small Clocks

Watches originally were small clocks and were worn hung from the girdle because they were too large for the pocket.

CARE OF GARMENTS

Now is the time when a clothes-moth gives many a home-maker an uneasy feeling as she thinks of her fur coats or of other furs. If she has done her best to keep her furs serviceable and beautiful, they have been frequently dusted and brushed during the winter season; they have not been worn in the rain, or if accidentally drenched, they have been carefully hung on a hanger and wiped dry with a bath towel; and they have been kept in a tight bag, in the top of which has been tied a sack of paradichlorobenzene.

Now, they first need special attention before they are stored for the summer. If not sent to a professional furrier, they should be cleaned at home. The cleaning method recommended by the New York State College of Home Economics follows:

Spread the garment out on a work table of convenient height. Rub the fur thoroughly with hard-wood sawdust that has been dampened with dry-cleaning solvent. The solvent cuts the grease and the sawdust absorbs the grease and dirt. When the fur is clean, shake out the soiled sawdust and rub dry, clean sawdust over the fur. Then shake and beat the garment to remove the sawdust. Some furriers use two rattan whips, one in each hand, striking lightly in order not to injure the skins.

All furs may be cleaned by this method excepting ermine, white fox, and other white furs which are usually cleaned with cornmeal moistened in a small amount of dry cleaning solvent. Too much solvent tends to yellow white fur. Beaver and otter—strong, durable furs—are often cleaned with hot, white sand.

After a fur has been cleaned, it should be combed and brushed.

A towel rod placed low enough on the bathroom wall for the small child to hang up his own towel and wash cloth usually delights him and helps to make him more independent and tidy.

A Priceless Memory Picture

In all of our services we take the necessary steps to create a Memory Picture which forever tends to console those loved ones left behind. Every service is so directed as to reflect beauty, a happier life in the Hereafter. We realize that the sentiment involved in a funeral service is precious and our every act is guided by that thought.

BEAUTIFUL NASTURTIUMS

Mary: "I just ran over to ask what kind of seed you planted last year to grow those lovely Golden Gleam Nasturtiums".

Jane: "They were Burpee's seed, I always plant Burpee's".

Mary: "Oh dear! Then I will not be able to plant them. It's too late to send away now".

Jane: "You don't need to send away. You can get the seed at Sackett & Taber's in Addison. And I'll give you a tip, Sackett & Taber sell Burpee's seed in bulk for less than you can send to Burpee's after them."

Mary: "Goodie! Then I can have some Golden Gleam Nasturtiums this year after all".

Jane: "Yes, I got my seed yesterday. And by the way, you can get the double, sweet-scented Nasturtiums this year in all colors at Sackett & Tabers".

Mary: "I'll have John drive me down this afternoon and get all my seeds at Sackett & Taber's."

Doughnut Contest At Freeman Grange

Women of Freeman Grange, No. 859 are soon going to test their skill in making doughnuts — the good, old-fashioned kind made with baking powder or soda. The Freeman costes, which is scheduled for May 8, is part of a state-wide doughnut contest.

Mrs. Rush Woodbeck of Elkland Pa., R. D. 1, will be in charge of the local contest, which promises to be a snappy one, as there are lots of good doughnut makers hereabouts. Each contestant will submit six specimens of her skill.

The local contest will be followed later by a county-wide competition, and finally by a state-wide contest in which 55 county winners will compete for over a hundred cash and merchandise prizes.

BORN IN WASHINGTON

A wire from Washington at an early hour this morning brought the news that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yeatts are the parents of a seven and one-half pound boy. Mrs. Yeatts before marriage was intimately known here as "Tubby" Casson. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds of Maple street. Dr. William E. Barron was the recipient of the message.

Why Pay More?

Many Attend Catholic Card Party Thurs.

Women of the parish of St. Catherine's Church received a large sum of money as a result of a successful card party held Thursday night in the parish hall. Prizes were awarded to Margaret Troy and W. E. Church at 500, to Miss Jeannette Dykins at auction bridge, to Mrs. Milton H. Crane and Mr. Watner at contract, to Mrs. Charles Salerno and Dr. Stuart H. Bean at pinochle, to Mrs. Edgar Dann and Thomas Reagan at euchre and to Harry Mullen at pitch. Other awards went to W. A. McCarthy and John Purcell.

Following the card playing sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the ladies. The Reagan Brothers of Rathbone provided the entertainment. They played for both round and square dancing throughout the balance of the night. Walter Jimmerson was the caller.

Clean-Up Days May 12-13— Other Village Board Notes

Send Supplemental Dike Plans to WPA Officials for Approval—Plan Repairs to Village Pumper—Ask Merchants Not to Park Cars in Main Street—Audit Bills—Ample Discussion on Dike Proposition.

Plans for the annual clean-up days, Wednesday and Thursday, May 12 and 13 were made at the village board meeting Monday night in the town hall. The group also discussed the parking situation in Main street, the proposed plan for completing the village dikes, repairs to the village fire truck and audited bills for the past fiscal period.

Mayor Angelo Sisto presided and Trustees Allen, Phelps, Orr and Clark were present as were Village Attorney Charles M. Salerno and Village Clerk W. M. Miller.

Fire Truck Repairs

Fire Chief John M. O'Keefe appeared before the board and asked for permission to have the O. J. Childs fire truck fixed. He stated the work could not be done here and it would be more reasonable to have the work done in Elmira in the factory. Mayor Sisto suggested that if it cost too much to have it fixed, it would be better to buy a new truck. Chief O'Keefe stated the truck was purchased in 1925 and had given good service. It was brought out that the pumper was used to drain cellars, in pumping water from creeks near fires, all of which hurt the equipment, but had to be done in line of duty.

Village Hall Locks

Trustee Orr reported inspection had been made of all doors and windows in the town hall and new locks had been provided where necessary. Mayor Sisto brought out the fact that tools left in the building were being taken by people entering windows. It was suggested by one of the trustees that the windows were left unlocked intentionally. Mr. Allen called the attention of Board members to the fact that foremen on jobs are responsible for tools and if tools are lost, the foreman should be fired, according to WPA officials.

Supplement Dike Project

Mayor Sisto injected the first formal note relative to last Friday's taxpayers' hearing when he said, "We must finish the dike job on this appropriation if Washington approves. If not, I'm going to move". Mr. Clark said, "We have not heard the end of that hearing yet". Mr. Sisto said that when anything happens the village board is to blame and he objected to some of the criticism leveled at the board Friday night. He said, "If the people don't like what we do, we can quit."

Attorney Salerno said the expenses of the dike had been carefully watched towards the end, but it was too late. Mr. Allen brought out the fact that "four months administration costs had been paid before the work began". Attorney Salerno told the members of the board they must "realize you are dealing with the worst kind of government activity".

Mayor Sisto contended that the work was being done by men unable to do the sort of work required, except in 10 or 12 exceptions. Mr. Clark stated he had been asked to cancel an order for 1200 barrels of cement and would do it only on condition that the sum of the purchase $3,024 be used to reduce the village's share of the amount of the work to be done. And he said, "this would cost me a profit of $180, but I'm willing to cooperate if WPA is."

Mr. Sisto here stated, "everything on the job was estimated high at first and it is too bad we could not have finished the job with the amount we had to do with. Trustee Orr injected the thought that, "if the project is approved, we can start in the important places and then if we run short we will not be stuck."

Mr. Salerno suggested the engagement of a superintendent familiar with reading blue prints and technical knowledge and paying a little more than the $120 per month provided as it would be a saving in the long run. He felt that WPA authorities would concur in this opinion for he felt they were just as anxious to complete the project as are the people of Addison. Mr. Sisto agreed that good supervision was needed on this project at this stage of the development. Mr. Allen stated "this was where we were licked in the beginning on the lack of proper supervision".

CCC Enrollees Publish Third Issue of Tuscarora

The third issue of "The Tuscarora" camp paper for the CCC boys has come to the Advertiser office this week. It is not a competitive newspaper in any sense of the word, as the editors of the magazine are news commentators in the CCC column maintained here.

The magazine offers interesting sidelights on camp life and humor. The issue is dedicated to "Mother". There is an editorial and poem dedicated to Mothers' Day and the front cover is a dedication. There are short stories, jokes, sports comments and drawings in the publication which is well worth reading.

Interest and Enthusiasm In Unusual Baby Contest

If you do not have a child eligible for the Derby, why not select one of the entries and support it with Baby Coupons? Look at the list of stores in the Baby Derby full-page ad. When you make any purchases in these business places you are entitled to one baby coupon for each 50c spent. For instance, a $10 purchase would entitle you to 20 coupons. When you get a supply of these coupons you can either turn them over to the parents of the baby you wish to support, or you can bring them to the Advertiser office and place them in the ballot-box after you have written the baby's name on the coupons.

Why not start gathering baby coupons now? Sooner or later some parent will ask for your support and when that time arrives you can hand over an already accumulated supply to some grateful parent. Remember, it costs nothing to get these coupons. They are given free with all purchases of 50c or more.

First Count May 15

The first count of coupons in the ballot box will be made one week from Saturday. An Honor Roll listing the 30 highest babies in that count will be published in the following issue of the Advertiser and Sentinel and also will be displayed Monday, May 17 on a mammoth Honor Roll board in the Advertiser office window. Parents no doubt realize the importance of having their baby land a high position on the first Honor Roll. for this will give the public its first indication as to which parents are out to have their babies win. The public likes to be with the winner, so naturally many new supporters will flock to the babies who hold the highest positions. Remember, you have up to 5 P. M. Saturday, May 15 to ballot coupons for the first count. Tell this to the baby's relatives and your friends. Be sure to round up all possible coupons in time for the first count.

The first count does not mean that the 3-mile valve on coupons comes to an end. The 3-mile value on coupons runs up to June 12—four weeks after the first count. In summing up the first count ends May 18 and the first period (3-mile period) ends June 12.

While the Honor Roll will contain only 30 names, please bear in mind that every baby entered will be listed in the regular list of entries. Some parents are likely to assume that all except the 30 Honor Roll babies are eliminated from the race. That is not so. Every baby listed will remain definitely in the race. Perhaps half of this week's Honor Roll babies might fail to make a place in the second Honor Roll, in which case many babies not on the first Honor Roll will displace them.

Parents should bear in mind that they are their baby's campaign managers. Your baby's chances of winning depends largely upon the effort you put forth. Remember, there is more to the Baby Derby than just entering the baby. You must contact all your relatives and friends and have them ASK FOR BABY COUPONS each time they make a purchase. If their favorite merchant does not have coupons, ask him to get a supply by phoning 58-R. The way to success is to make at least a few contacts each day, and in this way you will have an ever-increasing group of supporters. The more people are saving coupons, the more your baby will advance. If you have a phone, telephone everyone you know. Now make the next nine days count heavily, so that YOUR BABY will lead the first Honor Roll.

Death Ends Long Business Life of Lewis Davis

Lewis Davis, 75, died last Thursday morning, April 29, 1937 after an illness of several months. Death was caused by complications. He had had rallying periods during the past few days and his many friends hoped for his recovery. However, a recent relapse brought about his death.

Mr. Davis was born in Poland, June 1, 1862. He came to America in 1884 after his marriage to Miss Anna Meepos. Upon arriving here he settled in Penn Yan and soon after brought his wife to make her home with him. In Penn Yan he affiliated himself with his brother in the conduct of a clothing store and a few years later engaged in business for himself. His mercantile career continued over a 53 year period.

Twenty-four years ago he came to Addison to engage in the retailing of men's clothing and purchased the Hub Clothing Company and the building in which it was located. He conducted this for several years and a few years ago purchased the location which he sold this year to Brothers Thrift Stores of Rochester. Mr. Davis retired upon the consummation of the sale. Mr. Davis was an active member of the Ad Club and long prominent in Addison affairs.

Mrs. Davis died in 1924 in Wilmington, N. C., where she had gone to recuperate from an illness. Her son, Dr. Ralph Davis, was attending her. January 6, 1928 he married Mrs. Bertha Marblestone, New York. She survives with the son above mentioned; also Dora Miriam Davis, Long Branch, L. I.; Morris David Davis of Rockford, Illinois and Miss Janette Helen Davis of this village.

Stuart Says Union Men Want Reports Made Public

The Wadsworth bill "Providing for annual reports by unions, associations and organizations of employees and/or employers for the protection of its members engaged in private enterprise in this state, to provide information to its members and to the public with respect to its activities and providing for certain other matters incidental thereto.

"The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

"Section 1. On the first day of January in each year or within thirty days thereafter, each union, association or organization of employees and/or employers engaged in private enterprise in this state, shall execute and file in the office of the secretary of state a report of its activities during the preceding twelve months ending December 31, containing the following information:

(a) The name of such union, association or organization;

(b) The location of tis principal office, with street and number;

(c) A nnancial statement of each calendar year showing the receipts and the expenditures in detail, sworn to by its president or secretary and a copy thereof shall be mailed to each member and be open to the inspection of the public.

2. The secretary of each union, association or organization of employees or other officer exercising similar functions, shall serve upon each member of the union, association or organization in good standing, by mail or otherwise, on or before February first in each year, a concise statement of the facts required to be reported by this act.

3. This act shall take effect immediately."

Regarding this measure Assemblyman Stuart states: "Inasmuch as this bill was introduced in the interest of the rank and file of organized labor and, as the public in general can have no particular interest in this bill, it seems to me that the only question involved is this: does labor want this bill? I have been informed, in fact, it is a matter of general knowledge that the labor leaders, or some of them, are active in opposing the passage of this measure. But I believe it to be true that the rank and file in organized labor want this bill. I personally know that that is true in my own district. And so, Mr. Speaker, these leaders I shall treat with the charity of silence, but I must say a word in the interest of the men who have borne the heat and burden of the day, and still are bearing it.

"Labor unionism is strong in my district; namely, the unions connected with the railroads. These men are my friends. I know them all, several thousand of them; they voted for me. Their leaders, their far distant leaders, didn't vote for me. They are not in my district. But these men did almost to a man because they knew I would not betray the confidence they put in me years ago, the far distant years. When I was a young man I was a member of an organization which was affiliated with the Federation of Labor. I know something about the subject.

"On a recent visit to my home before this bill was amended in its present form I took a number of copies of the bill with me, thinking it quite likely that I would be approached by a number of these men asking me to either support it or to be against it. I was surprised. Nothing happened. None of these men came to see me. So I decided that if the mountain would not come to Mahomet then Mahomet would go to the mountain. I began to contact these men. I said: 'This bill was introduced in your interest; do you want it or do you not?' They were astonished. They said with one accord: 'What bill?' It seems, Mr. Speaker, that they had never heard of that bill. That bill had never been introduced in the councils of their local organizations. To my mind that fact was extremely suggestive.

"I gave them copies of the bill and when I explained what it meant, to a man they urged me to support it. They said: 'Go back and tell the other fellows down in the Assembly that we want them to support it; this is just the bill we have been wanting for years and couldn't get it because we haven't any spokesman; we have been paying our union bills and didn't know where our money went.'

"I gave them numerous copies of the bill and told them to circulate them, to talk it over and, 'if you or any of the boys are opposed to this bill wire me or write me". That was two or three weeks ago and I haven't had a single communication. So, Mr. Speaker, if silence gives consent, it is quite evident that the two or three thousand laboring men in my district all favor this bill.

"And so I have come to believe that it is indeed a good bill, calculated to work for the advantage of the rank and file of the membership of the labor unions. And to those members of this House who profess to have close to their hearts the interests of the laboring man and yet who are opposed to the passage of this measure at this time, I can only say that I sincerely believe that they are barking up the wrong tree."

Olmsted and Dann Cows High For the Month of April

This month Robert S. Drake reports 790 cows on test with 82 cows dry. A. H. Odmsted of Woodhull has high cow for butterfat production, this purebred Holstein produced 74.4 pounds of butterfat from 1903 pounds of milk for the month of April. Robert Dann of Painted Post leads the association with the high cow for milk production, this registered Holstein cow produced 2112 pounds of milk containing 65.5 pounds of butterfat for the month.

There were 14 cows that produced over 60 pounds of butterfat, in the following herds: C. A. Stewart & Son, 1; A. H. Olmsted, 2; H. D. Grist, 2; H. B. Toby, 1; E. H. Ackerman, 1; Robert Dann, 3; Wilson Bennett, 2; Frank Young, 2.

Cows producing 1200 pounds of milk or 40 pounds of butterfat follow as they are listed in the following herds: C. A. Stewart & Son, 12; Ray Jordan, 11; A. H. Olmsted, 10; H. D. Grist, 10; J. H. Reynolds, 5; C. L. Knox, 5; Bert Jimerson, 1; M. R. Collins, 3; H. B. Toby, 6; H. W. Deming, 1; E. H. Ackerman, 3; C. A. Drake & Sons, 5; R. R. Decker, 2; Burt F. Smith, 2; R. F. Ingersoll, 2; George Williams, 2; Earl Wilson, 2; A. E. Scudder, 27; Robert Dann, 41, Wilson Bennett, 13; Leon, Andrews, 7; Frank Young, 10; Leon Johnson, 1; Lewis Titus, 7.

The tester gives the five high herds based on butterfat production: (These herds are all Woodhull herds).

Owner	Cows	Fat	Milk
E. H. Ackerman	14	42.1	1205.6
H. D. Grist	18	41.1	1181.4
Ray Jordan	18	38.4	1085.0
A. H. Olmsted	20	38.3	1095.9
C. A. Drake & Sons	17	33.4	995.3

Keep Dirt on Trees In Transplanting

"Most failures in the transplanting of ornamental trees beyond the seedling stage are due to the fact that a sufficient amount of dirt around the roots in which the tree has been growing is not taken up and planted with the tree," says Dr. Vernon A. Young of the Department of Forest Botany, New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, N. Y.

"Certain minute organisms found in the soil may grow in mutual relationship with the roots of most trees. These organisms may grow either between the cells or in the cells to form an association with the root known as mycorrhiza. The mycorrhiza", says Dr. Young, "play an important role in the chemical processes whereby the trees obtain mineral nutrients from the soil. Mycorrhiza are of very common occurrence, and forest trees growing in rich humus seem generally to be associated with such organisms or fungi. Therefore, in transplanting trees larger than seedling size or so-called transplants, as much of the soil as practicable should be taken undisturbed with the roots and placed in the ground at the new location."

Information regarding the proper planting of trees will be mailed on request.

Home Bureau Plans Annual Housing Tour

The first in the series of two housing tours under the auspices of the Home Bureau will be held this Thursday for the group in the Savona District. Women will meet at the home of Mrs. S. A. Purdy at Savona. Homes in Hammondsport and Wheeler will be visited. Tomorrow (Friday) women in the Hornell District will meet at the home of Mrs. R. E. Sanders, 162 Leach street. Hornell and homes in Greenwood and Campbell Creek will be visited.

Methodist Superintendent To Have Canisteo Home

The Rev. J. Wesley Searles, district superintendent for the Hornell District of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has announced that the L. J. Simpson residence in Prospect Avenue, Canisteo, has been purchased as a residence for the district superintendents. The sum of $8,000 was expended for the building according to William J. Richtmyer, lay executive for the district. Consent of Bishop Adna W. Leonard was received before the purchase was made.

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the Office of information of the New York State college of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Mrs. A. E., asks: "Will you tell me how to take care of cyclamen and cineraria plants so that they will blossom again? They were in blossom when given to me. The tops have now dropped off".

R. C. Allen of the floriculture department answers: "It is hopeless to try to get cineraria to bloom a second time. The plants behave as annuals and die after they complete their flowering period.

"With cyclamen, it is possible to dry off the pot in which the plant has been growing from about the middle of May to the first of June. After the plant has died back and the leaves have fallen off, remove the corms, clean and store them in a cool, dry place until about the first of September.

"At that time it should be potted in fresh soil, and grown in a cool, sunny window where frequently it will produce a new crop of leaves and flowers. By this treatment it is possible to flower a single cyclamen corm for several years.

"Although it is possible to flower cyclamen plants more than once, the quality of plants and flowers usually become progressively poorer."

Seams Pucker

Mrs. R. P., writes: "My sewing machine causes the seam to pucker. What is the trouble, and what can be done about it?"

Professor B. B. Robb of the department of agricultural engineering replies: "If the seam puckers, it indicates that one or both tensions are too tight for the goods.

"Tensions of sewing machines must be regulated not only so they will be even, but also they should be of the right tightness for the goods being stitched. In other words, the lighter the goods, the looser the tensions should be."

Prize Speaking Contest Held in Bath H. S.

Miss Elizabeth Dignen and Willis Colburn were the Addison representatives in the county prize speaking contest held for high school students in Bath last Wednesday night. They were praised for their work in the contest in which several schools of the county participated. The winners were: Miss Margaret Walter of Hornell and Malcolm Adams of Bath high school. Second place awards went to Mary Ellen Sprague, Avoca and to Phillip Purcell, Corning Free Academy. Virginia Barr, Corning Northside and Raymond Campbell, Avoca placed in third position. Dr. Adrian Neuans, president of Ithaca College, was the judge. A large delegation from Addison attended the speaking.

BRASS TACKS For POULTRY RAISERS

By BURTON P. THARP

Special Handling

Surprising indeed was the special handling several hundred chicks were receiving a few days ago at a not very distant railroad station. We might add also that the station was not in a town in which this column is published.

The boxes of day-old chicks were piled on a truck which stood on the west side of the station platform. A cold northwest wind was blowing on them with nothing to break it. An inquiry brought a statement from the man in charge that a parcel post truck would come for them in a few minutes. How long they had waited is uncertain but a half hour later the chicks were still waiting and voicing their discomfort.

Somebody had approximately $40 tied up in that shipment of chicks and had paid for special handling in order that they would not be chilled in shipment. One wonders just how those birds are coming out. That half-hour of exposure is likely to mean a very heavy loss to the owner through no fault of his.

"Baby Chick Pullman" boxes are so constructed for ventilation that they conserve the heat of the chicks thus preventing chilling but not in a high wind or on a cold April morning. Many railroad employees perhaps do not realize that the boxes should be protected from extreme temperature at all times.

Chilling day-old chicks may result in common diarrhoea and colds. A tendency towards brooder pneumonia is aggravated by chilling. Losses of 10 to 50 per cent frequently result in the first three weeks by such carelessness.

Diarrhoea is easily recognized by the weak appearance of the chicks, drooping wings and pasted feathers around the vent. The droppings on the feathers has a yellowish color. The treatment consists of killing all seriously affected birds and isolating any others which do not appear strong. It is doubtful whether the weakened chicks will make a very satisfactory recovery and produce good layers. Keep the temperature of the brooder uniform and practice extreme sanitation.

Watery and swollen eyes with stuck eye-lids is an indication of colds. The birds also sniffle, appear inactive and show diarrhoea. Treat the same as for diahhhoea and spray the brooder-house with a good disinfectant.

To the Members of the Village Board.

Gentlemen:

A newswriter likes to secure "hot" news. Your board is in a position to give this news. You are elected by the people and of course they are interested in your activities in their behalf. Don't think a paper or reporter "nosy" for we are only providing information our readers want. Incidentally a reporter likes the wrangling that goes on at all board meetings. Free discussion is good, but I would advise tempering it a bit when a reporter is present for he would like to print some of the things you say.

Mother's Day. A pink carnation for living mothers and a white carnation worn out of respect for mothers who have passed to a greater home.

Being a mother is a serious business in a world where there are so many distractions for children. Young people leave the home ties quicker than they used to, but lose something by the going. There is an idealism which clings close to home and mothers and when that is gone, the materialism left is rather empty if one will really admit it.

—o—

However, the responsibility of being a child is great. Too few of us really appreciate our parents while they are living. There are many little things we could do, if we would like to make the lot of our parents somewhat easier. Kind words, small deeds often done, and a sharing of confidences. Many of us forget that our parents, like us, were young once.

Those who use the woods are asked to use care these days owing to the ease with which forest fires can be started. Underbrush, dead wood and the refuse of nature's winter is left. This is quickly ignited and from a small match can grow a large fire. Please use care.

I had not seen any robin eggs since I was a kid until last week. Our back porch has been littered with hay and we were wondering where it was coming from. Over the back door we discovered a nest, but before throwing the hay away looked into the nest and three eggs were there. So, we left it there, but it is unfortunate that the mother robin is scared away every time we open the back door, for sometimes we forget mother robin.

It certainly begins to look as though spring were here. The river is low, there have been the usual fogs and the days are warm enough to go coatless.

Aldebaran High In Heavens Will Leave Sky in May

Just a little above and to the right of Orion may be seen Taurus, the Bull. Aldebaran is the eye of the Bull. Aldebaran is called the Follower because it follows the Pleiades. It is a red star of first magnitude. Spencer the poet says:

"Now when Aldebaran was mounted high

Aldebaran is indeed a great red sun and is the fourteenth star in the order of brilliancy. It has been estimated that the sun given 90,000,000,000 times as much light as this star, but if it were brought as close to us as the sun, it would give us 45 times as much light as we receive from the sun.

It is said that a telegraphic message would go seven times around the earth in a second; if it could be sent to the moon, it would take a little more than a second, but if sent to the sun it would take about eight minutes, and if sent to Aldebaran it would take about 28 years. In other words, it is about 168 trillion miles away. It is speeding away from us at a rate of about 30 miles a second.

Aldebaran rises about an hour after the Pleiades, at which time it is almost directly under this group. It shows its bright red face in the evening sky for about eight months of the year. During the last days of May it becomes lost in the brilliancy of the sun. Every one who is interested in the great suns of the universe ought to find this fine star before it leaves in May.

Son of Former Native Now Ship Commander

C. Lyndon Spencer, a former Batavian, has been promoted to the rank of commander in the U. S. Coast Guard. He is in command of the "Chelan", a 250-foot ship with a crew of a hundred men, which patrols the New England coast.

A native of Hornell, Commander Spencer came to Batavia with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Spencer, when he was four years old. He was a graduate from Batavia High School in 1915 and while taking a post-graduate course preparatory to entering Cornell University, decided to apply for entrance in the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.

Entrance examinations were held in Buffalo and Commander Spencer enrolled in the academy in August, 1916, for training. Because of the World War, he was graduated a year in advance and assigned to the Coast Guard cutter "Itaska".

The former Batavian has served on Coast Guard duty and on the high seas, through the Panama Canal as convoy to a fleet of submarine chasers and along the Pacific Coast as far north as Alaska. He made his second trip to Alaska in 1921 on the "Algonquin" to carry help and supplies to the Aleutian Islands where there was an epidemic of smallpox. Later he was detailed to protect seal fisheries and Government hatcheries.

Returning to the East, Commander Spencer was assigned to iceberg patrol off the coast of Nova Scotia and Labrador. His land duty was spent in teaching navigation and seamanship at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, and three years in the divisional office in Washington.

At Sandy Hook he had command of a hundred picked men whom he drilled for war duty, and conducted ship races and other practice work.

Commander Spencer is married and has two daughters. His home is at Belmont, Mass., near Boston. Mrs. Spencer formerly was Miss Lucile Littlefield of Boston.

William J. Spencer, father of Cammander Spencer, who, with Mrs. Spencer, now resides in Buffalo, at one time resided in Addison and was employed as a cabinet maker at the C. D. Hill plant, later known as the Park, Winton & True factory.

FRUIT, FLOWERS AND GARDEN

Buy or Grow Pants

R. C. Allen

Many persons inquire if it is better to sow seed and to grow plants or to buy from a florist or nurseryman. The answer depends upon the kind of plant and a person's skill, experience and equipment.

Nearly all perennials that are sold under variety names cannot be grown from seed. Because of their hybrid nature, they do not come true. Therefore, it is not advisable to attempt to grow such plants as phlox, peonies, iris, roses and others from seed.

It is also inadvisable to grow many of the more difficult garden plants such as dictamnus, eremurus, and Helleborus because the seed is expensive, the germination difficult, slow and uncertain, and the young plants are beset by many ills. Propagation of these plants is best left to the specialists.

Unless a person has ideal facilities, the growing of slower-growing annuals from seed, such as petunias and snapdragons, is not encouraged. It is a common experience that most of the perennial plants and the more difficult annuals can be bought cheaper than they can be raised, and results are more satisfactory.

However, don't let this discourage you. For some persons, most of the fun in gardening is raising their own plants from seed. If you have not tried it, sow a few packages in a box in a sunny window, and see what happens.

Local Contest Winner Tells Ways To Reduce Accidents

Miss Anne Flynn, eighth grade student in the Addison High School was winner of the second prize in the recent safety essay contest conducted in the school by the Crane Insurance Company. The winning essay was published last week and the points of Miss Flynn's essay are believed worthy of reprinting in this paper.

As long as there are automobiles there will continue to be accidents. The ever-increasing pyramid of mangled bodies cries out against this wholly unnecessary slaughter. Each year more people are killed in automobile accidents than were killed in the great war. It is truly a needless murder which can be stopped only by the people themselves.

The primary way that this could be prevented would be an entirely new system of tests for driving licenses. Instead of the superficial test of the eyes, operating a car, etc., which is the state of conditions existing today, a much more complicated one may be suggested. This test would include that given now in order to find out the ability of a person to drive a car. In addition a test could be conducted to discover how long it would take a person to react in case of emergency. Such tests are given in some factories at the present time, to see if a person is capable of operating machinery. It is a well-known fact that some people are temporarily mentally paralyzed at the critical moment when action is imperative. This is due to fear and it may be caused by some physical defect in a person's nature. Also it may be from mental dullness brought on by bad habits or a dissipated condition.

Such a test would make understandable all these defects because if a person were not in the best physical condition, it would be shown in the forthcoming reaction.

The second remedy that may be suggested is the permanent suspension of the license of the driver at fault in a serious accident. A driver with this thought ever before him will carefully refrain from any move which may lead to or be the cause of an accident. Thus the red lights at intersections would be respected and the white lines on the hills would be observed.

The third and final proposal would not, it is true, prevent accidents directly. Since the ideal cannot be realized, in spite of all the measures that may be taken, there will always be those irresponsibles whose victims must be provided for by a system of compulsory liability insurance being introduced in each state. In this way all losses would be covered by the insurance company.

Record Service Popular With Steuben Dairymen

One hundred forty-five herds and 2526 cows were enrolled in the Dairy Herd Improvement Associations of Steuben County in the month of March, on the statement of Burton Ketch of Wallace, chairman of the Farm Bureau dairy committee.

The largest association is the Southern Steuben operated by Robert Drake of Addison. It serves thirty dairies, and 766 cows were tested in March. Over one half million pounds of milk were produced and 20,883 pounds of butterfat, according to Mr. Drake's records. The high cow in the group is the purebred Holstein in the herd of H. D. Grist of Woodhull which had a production of 79 pounds of butterfat and 2324 pounds of milk. Grant Stone of Cameron Mills is a new member, Mr. Drake reports.

There were thirty-three herds and 579 cows tested in the Cohocton Valley Association, according to the report of Lyle Hopkins. The high cow in the hurd of Durwood Burns of Bath, made 2353 pounds of milk and 92 of fat. Harlo Foster of Wheeler is a new member.

Donald Gorges, supervisor of the Western group, reports a membership of twenty-five, that records were kept on 361 cows. Two new members joined in March, Clifford Hunt of Jasper and Ernest Scribner of Greenwood. Two cows in the Holstein herd of Jack Kamenuk of Hornell placed first for fat and milk, one with a production of 70 pounds of fat and 1949 of milk, another 67 of fat and 2176 of milk.

Roy Walls, supervisor of the Southeastern Association, served 22 members and kept records on 329 cows. The township of Caton led in the number of honor roll cows, the herd of J. E. Wagner had eight, Kenneth Coles seven, Myron Gridley six, and Henry Pock four.

A new member of the Northwestern Association, of which Richard Ellis has charge is Vincent Kurtz of Cohocton. A good cow in the Holstein herd of Dee Kilbury of Fremont made the high production of 84 pounds of fat and 2403 of milk. Three hundred ninety-two cows were on test in the herds of twenty-eight members.

Dairy Herd Improvement Association records, according to Mr. Ketch, provide an accurate account of the feed costs, and the milk receipts for each individual cow in the herd. The records are of benefit in feeding, and in carrying out a constructive breeding program, according to Mr. Ketch.

Against Reckless Driving Campaign to Continue

Albany, N. Y., April 23—Charging the reckless driver with "contempt of human life", Charles A. Harnett, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner, today asked law enforcement agencies to continue their campaign against reckless driving in New York State.

This announcement follows a review of statistics compiled for the first three months of 1937 which disclosed that 213 drivers' licenses were revoked for reckless driving. This is an increase of approximately 73 per cent over the same period of last year.

"Curbing the reckless driver is vitally necessary for the protection of other motorists", the Commissioner said. "The type of driver who wilfully disregards traffic signals and rules of the road is the driver who gambles with other lives as well as his own.

"Cutting in, passing on curves and hills and driving at unreasonable speed are practices typical of the reckless driver. These are the bad driving habits which make travel on the highways hazardous. Reckless driving must be curbed to effect reduction of traffic accident deaths."

Commissioner Harnett pointed out the total number of revocations for the period ending March 31 as 1,783. Suspensions totaled 6,566.

A Horse Offers A Prayer To His Master

Last week we pointed out that this would be National "Be Kind to Animals" week and in conjunction with that we ran across this clipping which we feel will be of interest to horse lovers in this vicinity. To Thee, My Master, I offer my prayer:

Feed me, water and care for me and when the day's work is done, provide me with shelter, a clean, dry bed, and a stall wide enough for me to lie down in comfort.

Always be kind to me. Talk to me. Your voice often means as much to me as the reins. Pet me sometimes that I may serve you the more gladly and learn to love you. Do not jerk the reins, and do not whip me when going up hill. Never strike, beat or kick me when I do not understand what you want, but give me a chance to understand you. Watch me, and if I fail to do your bidding, see if something is not wrong with my harness or feet.

Do not check me so that I cannot have the free use of my head. If you insist that I wear blinders so that I cannot see behind me, as was intended I should, I pray you be careful that the blinders stand well out from my eyes.

Do not overload me, or hitch me where water will drip on me. Keep me well shod. Examine my teeth when I do not eat. I may have an ulcerated tooth and that, you know, is very painful. Do not fix my head in an unnatural position, or take away my best defense against flies and mosquitoes by cutting off my tail.

I cannot tell you when I am thirsty, so give me clean, cool water often. I cannot tell in words when I am sick, so watch me, and by signs you may know my condition. Give me all possible shelter from the hot sun, and put a blanket on me, not when I am working, but when I am standing in the cold. Never put a frosty bit in my mouth. First warm it by holding it a few moments in your hands.

And finally, O My Master, when my useful strength is gone, do not turn me out to starve or freeze, or sell me to some human brute to be slowly tortured and starved to death, but do Thou, My Master, take my life in the kindest way, and your God will reward you here and hereafter. You will not consider me irreverent if I ask this in the name of Him who was born in a stable. Amen. (Translated from Swedish.)

History moves so fast these days that everything seems to happen at once.

Governor Signs Cheney Teacher Tenure Bill

(Special Wire to The Sentinel)

Albany, May 4, 1937—Village Tenure Bill, which Assemblyman Guy W. Cheney First Steuben assisted in drafting, has been signed into law by Governor Lehman. The law, which is effective July first, extends tenure to villages of 4500 or more employing a superintendent. It was the outgrowth of two bills, one by Assemblyman Cheney and the other by Assemblyman Harold Erlich, Buffalo. It also was a compromise between the New York State Teachers Association and the New York State Boards Association of the State. Therefore it was reported for vote, sponsored by the education committee of the assembly. The Village Tenure Bill differs from the City Tenure Law in several minor respects. Its major difference is that it sets up a commission of five to hear complaints. Assemblyman Cheney explained that the purpose of the commission is to hear complaints of a teacher when discharged, the teacher brings her grievance to the commission, it recommends to the stated education commissioner and his dicision is final. "The feature is an advance in tenure laws and promises somewhat of a solution to one of the most perplexing problems facing school boards of our state today." A three vear probationary period is provided before permanent contracts are given teachers. It further provides that village education boards may require an additional year probation in the case of a teacher now in service who has been employed more than three years. The law has the approval of Dr. Frank P. Graves, State Commissioner of Education. When signing it Governor Lehman said, "I am very glad to sign this bill which extends tenure to additional teachers in the public school service. The law which Assemblyman Cheney prefers to call a Civil Service Merit System, further stipulates that teachers who received a contract following a probationary period cannot be dismissed except on charges sustained after a hearing.

School Board Holds April Meeting

The Addison Board of Education voted last Thursday evening not to allow use of the school building during the summer months for adult education. Application had been made to continue the night school through the summer months but trustees pointed out the fact that it is customary to turn the electric current off the building in the summer, and without lights the night program could not be carried on The district affects considerable saving by cutting off the current during the summer.

Favorable action was taken on the matter of Board consent to a community band to be run under the auspices of the W. P. A. This did not require the use of the school building. Wendell Hewson, school physical director, appeared before the Board relative to use of the school grounds for other than school purposes. Permission had been granted the C C C to use the grounds certain evenings which did not interfere with the school teams. The Board voted against granting the request of the Phoenix Hose Company to hold a fair and carnival either on the Valerio Parkway area, or on the grounds of the former Grammar School.

All except two members of the Board were present.

Dean Withey is Elected Scout Commissioner

With the renewed registration of the Boy Scout troop of this village and the appointment of Very Rev. Thomas A. Withey as district commissioner, Scouting in this vicinity will take on a new impetus during the coming season.

Kenneth McCaig has re-registered as Scoutmaster of the troop with Maynard Allen as Assistant Scoutmaster.

Fr. Withey has been appointed district commissioner by Commissioner Fred G. Anderson. The new official will supervise Boy Scout troops in Addison, Elkland and Osceola and will cooperate with Commissioners L. Edward Wade and Leon R. Reynolds in the operation of the Corning District of Scouting. He takes the place made vacant through the resignation of Clark Wood, Elkland.

Commissioner Withey has long been active in Scouting, having served in England and America. For three years he was Committeeman for Troop 27 sponsored by the Addison Advertising Club.

Bovee Warns Auto Drivers

Police Chief Elmer C. Bovee is seeking the cooperation of local motor car drivers in law enforcement and proper driving for this village. He is seeking to have proper driving within the village limits before some major mishap brings the carelessness of some motorists to the attention of all.

Three things which will have to be done to secure this cooperation and prevent accidents in his opinion are: less speeding, no U turns in the middle of blocks and coming to a complete stop at "stop" sign intersections. He states that if people are not willing to cooperate in these measures, drastic action will have to be taken to prevent people from being injured and to save drivers from themselves. He arrested a truck driver in Front street Monday night for passing two fast moving passenger cars. And this a main street.

He also asks motorists to pull to the curb when they desire to talk with some one and not park in the middle of Main street.

Steuben Music Festival To Be Held in Addison Friday, May 14

Ten Schools in County Will Send Bands, Orchestras, Glee Clubs — Parade at Noon — Greyback and Gladstone Making Arrangements — Gala Day Planned for This Big Event.

Musicians from ten schools in the county will gather here Friday-May 14 for the annual county scholastic festival. The highlight of the day's activities will be a parade through the streets of Addison at noon by the united bands or the organizations participating in the festival.

Addison will be in gala attire for the festival, which promises to be one of the largest ever held in the county judging by the number of entries.

Joseph Greyback, supervisor of music in the Addison High School and Principal Irving R. Gladstone of the local school are in charge of arrangements.

The competitions are not for awards, but for the criticisms of the judges to aid the bands in preparing their programs and instrumentation. Dr. Harry King, one of the judges, is in charge of the instrumental music department in Fredonia Normal School.

The schools represented and their representatives will be: Addison—orchestra, band and mixed chorus; Painted Post—band and orchestra; Corning Northside — band and orchestra, a boy and a girl chorus each; Corning Free Academy— senior orchestra, junior orchestra, string quartet, boys' glee club and band; Wayland— orchestra, grammar school chorus and high school chorus; Avoca—orchestra; Campbell—chorus; Hornell—orchestra, band, mixed chorus, junior high chorus, junior orchestra and band; Savona—band; Hammondsport—glee club.
